E3_intro percent chance intro

The following questions ask you to think about the percent chance that something will happen in the future. The percent chance can be thought of as the number of chances out of 100. You can use any number between 0 and 100. For example, numbers like: 2 and 5 percent may be "almost no chance", 20 percent or so may mean "not much chance", a 45 or 55 percent chance may be a "pretty even chance", 80 percent or so may mean a "very good chance", and a 95 or 98 percent chance may be "almost certain"

E3 social security reform

What do you think is the percent chance that, during the next four years of Barack Obama's presidency, a major Social Security reform will be passed into law, under which workers who pay Social Security taxes would pay taxes on all earnings? (Under current law, employees pay taxes on the first $102,000 of earnings in 2008.)

Range: 0..100

E4 health insurance reform

What do you think is the percent chance that, during the next four years of Barack Obama's presidency, a major health insurance reform will be passed into law, under which all children who are United States citizens will have health care coverage?

Range: 0..100
